

W. Michael Rochelle Jr.

GOODBYE TO LOVE

I'm gonna take today to cry
Today is my day to get it all out
I spent too much time in denial
So much time lost in doubt
You were never good for me
This I learned a little too late
I was bound by dependency
Repeatedly making the same mistakes
I saw all the warning signs
Studied every single one
They were all too familiar
From past relationships that came undone
But I loved you
So I was blind to the fact
That all of my wants and needs
Equaled everything you lacked
I didn't deserve the hurt and pain
Of hearing your new lover's name
And I just can't find the words I seek
To congratulate you on your new relationship after just a week
So, today I will cry
Maybe I'll even scream
I'll throw things around and kick stuff
I'll yell things that are obscene
But tomorrow is a new day
And there won't be any tears
No more pain and sorrow
Over a seemingly wasted year
But at least I learned a lesson
Maybe even two
You aren't better off without me
I'm better off without you
So I say goodbye to love
And though today I may cry
It won't be this way tomorrow
And that, my friend, is no lie
Goodbye